Dear reader,

Model United Nations Slovenia Club (MUNSC), a part of the youth section of the United Nations Association of Slovenia, invites you to take part in MUNSC’s United Nations Simulation on the topic of Energy Security, which will take part between the 8th and the 11th of July 2014. The simulation will take place in Ljubljana, Slovenia, at the Faculty of social sciences of the University of Ljubljana in cooperation with the Academic Forum for Foreign Affairs Graz.

We are offering young people aged between 18 and 29 a possibility to test themselves in the role of delegates, presiding officers or reporters (more in the application). The simulation will be in English. We will be simulating two committees:

- Joint cabinet crisis: Crisis in Ukraine;

Moreover, two round tables will be held on the first day with interesting guest speakers on the topic of energy security, and the organizing team will prepare a special evening program. Besides the opportunity of improving their knowledge of the UN and chosen topics, their negotiating, argumentative, diplomatic and public speaking skills, among others, participants will also get the possibility to meet potential employers and peers from Slovenia and Austria.

Those who would like to participate in the simulation as a delegate, a presiding officer or a reporter are kindly invited to fill in the application form and send it to our e-mail munsc@unaslovenia.org by the 10th of May 2014. If you have any questions regarding the simulation, please send them to the same e-mail address. More information regarding the simulation, committees and the topics will be available on our websites, while the chosen candidates will receive all simulation materials on their e-mails.

Best regards,

Karolina Praček
MUNSC President

The project is organized in cooperation with Mestna občina Ljubljana (Municipality of Ljubljana)
